

Postgrad Medicine

Postgrad Medicine - Postgraduate Medicine. A peer-reviewed medical journal established by Charles Mayo MD, founder of the Mayo Clinic. The journal publishes research which supports primary care physicians in solving clinical problems and improving patient care. It offers accelerated publication. Postgraduate Medical Journal aims to support junior doctors and their teachers and contribute to the continuing professional development of all doctors by publishing papers on a wide range of topics relevant to the practising clinician and teacher. Graduate Entry Medicine is an increasingly popular option, both for those coming to the end of a different degree and for slightly older candidates seeking a change in career. Given the increased demand for Graduate Entry Medicine, The Medic Portal has created a comprehensive source of information. Applying for graduate entry medicine. Postgrad medicine refers to what qualified doctors do. GEM is an undergraduate degree for graduates. Therefore, application is via UCAS. The usual rules apply about only being able to apply for 4 schools, and a personal statement and reference are required.