

Who Is The Father Of Modern Psychology

Who Is The Father Of Modern Psychology - Wilhelm Wundt - The Father of Modern Psychology As A Science Wilhelm Wundt rightfully holds the title as the father of modern psychology as a scientific pursuit. Wundt approached the study of the mind from a scientific perspective from the beginning of his work in the field. The Father of Modern Psychology. Wundt is bestowed this distinction because of his formation of the world's first experimental psychology lab, which is usually noted as the official start of psychology as a separate and distinct science. By establishing a lab that utilized scientific methods to study the human mind and behavior, ...Foster Watson, The Father of Modern Psychology, - about Vives. Juan Luis Vives (1492-1540), renowned Spanish humanist, philosopher, psychologist and. Wilhelm Wundt is the man most commonly identified as the father of psychology. He was a German psychologist who established the very first psychology laboratory in Leipzig, Germany in 1879. This event is widely recognized as the formal establishment of psychology as a science distinct from biology and philosophy. Related Questions More Answers Below.